Set in the tranquil grounds of the Church of the Epiphany, the carefully landscaped Crafers Memorial Garden is an ideal setting for the interment of ashes of loved ones. Contoured lawns and gardens and the natural slope of the hillside provide peaceful areas for interment under granite plaques in the garden beds. Alternatively, ashes can be deposited in one of two dry stone columbarium walls.

Newly planted flowers and shrubs have been designed to harmonise with the century old English trees which give welcome shade in summer. Water cascades gently into a rock pool, in which fish swim and hide among the water lilies.

Close to the City, yet truly part of the rural charm of the Adelaide Hills, the Crafers Memorial Garden is an ideal choice of resting place for the ashes of a loved one.
